REEL INDEX

The frame number on the left hand side of the page identifies where on the microfilm a specific document begins. The title of each document is listed in the Reel Index. Titles are accompanied by dates. Certain series of documents--specifically, Intelligence Information Reports and Intelligence Information Cables--are accompanied by two dates. For these latter documents, the date in brackets represents what the CIA refers to as the "date of information," and the date that is not in brackets represents the date of distribution of the document within the Central Intelligence Agency and various executive departments. Other series of documents--specifically, intelligence memos, National Intelligence Estimates, status reports, memos, and reports in general--are generally accompanied only by a distribution date. The date that accompanies cables (other than Intelligence Information Cables) indicates when the cable was sent.
