SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This edition of Papers of the NAACP consists of the General Office Files from Group IV of the NAACP Records collection at the Library of Congress. Arranged alphabetically by subject, these General Office Files provide an in-depth look at some of the most important developments in the civil rights struggle between 1966 and 1970. These include the emergence of the Black Power movement, the enactment of open housing legislation, the fight against discrimination by employers and labor unions, school desegregation efforts, urban riots, the War on Poverty, voter registration, and the Vietnam War. Part 28, Series B, consists of the General Office Files covering names or topics beginning with the letters P through Z: “Powell, Adam Clayton, Jr.” through “White Supremacy.” Part 28, Series A, of the same alphabetical subject file spans letters A through P: “Africa” through “Poor People’s Campaign.”

Part 28, Series B, begins with a group of files covering Adam Clayton Powell Jr., Harlem’s controversial representative in the U.S. House of Representatives. The files begin with correspondence pertaining to Powell’s decision to convene a National Conference on Black Power in Washington, D.C., in September 1966. An August 30 letter from NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins to Representative Powell explains the NAACP’s reasons for not participating in the conference. The remainder of the documents in the “Powell, Adam Clayton, Jr.” file pertain to his expulsion from the House of Representatives in 1967. Newspaper clippings and correspondence reveal the NAACP’s reaction to the controversy. In a January 19, 1967, letter, Wilkins stated that while he did not agree with Powell’s personal conduct, he urged the House of Representatives to deal fairly with Powell. The file also contains a press release of the resolution adopted at the NAACP’s fifty-eighth annual meeting on January 3, 1967, and a January 10 statement by Wilkins following the vote to expel Powell from Congress.

The passage of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 was one of the great legislative triumphs of the civil rights movement. The act prohibited the use of tests or other qualifications to deny the right to vote. It also provided for the deployment of federal registrars to monitor voter registration in areas where less than 50 percent of the minority residents of voting age were registered. The NAACP’s campaign for voting rights dated from the 1910s when it joined as amicus curiae a 1913 suit against the Oklahoma grandfather clause. (Grandfather clauses were one device used by states to prevent African Americans from voting. These clauses generally stated that males entitled to vote before 1867 and their sons and grandsons were eligible to vote. In 1915 the Supreme Court declared grandfather clauses unconstitutional.) During the 1930s and 1940s, the association filed several lawsuits regarding voting rights, and its 1944 victory in Smith v. Allwright was one of its most important legal victories. It was not until after the passage of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, however, that African Americans made significant gains in voter registration. Files in this edition pertaining to voting rights and voter registration can be found beginning at Frame 0331 of Reel 4, "Register and Vote." This section includes files on voter registration in Mississippi and South Carolina; correspondence and reports from W. C. Patton, the NAACP's field director for voter registration; and materials on the NAACP Summer Project in Louisiana and Missouri. The NAACP's campaign for voting rights in the years before 1965 is covered by UPA's Papers of the NAACP, Part 4: The Voting Rights Campaign, 1916–1950, and by Supplement to Part 4: Voting Rights, General Office Files, 1956–1965.

Another major issue confronting the NAACP in the period after 1965 was the outbreak of urban riots. Beginning with riots in Harlem (New York), Rochester, Philadelphia, and Watts (Los Angeles) in 1964 and 1965, hundreds of riots followed nationwide from 1966 to 1968. The "Riots" file (Reel 6, Frames 0001–0610) contains correspondence, reports, and newspaper clippings on several of these riots. The file also includes a folder on the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders. The Commission, also known as the Kerner Commission, was created by President Lyndon B. Johnson to study the causes of the riots and to offer policy suggestions for dealing with the "urban crisis." Roy Wilkins served as a member of the commission and the folder in this edition contains correspondence pertaining to Wilkins's duties, as well as a report on media coverage of the riots. The Records of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders have also been microfilmed by UPA and can be found in Civil Rights During the Johnson Administration, 1963–1969.

Documents pertaining to the NAACP's response to the urban riots can be found in the "Urbanization" file, as well as in the "Training Department" file. For example, in the "Urbanization—General" folder, there is a September 1967 letter from NAACP Director of Branches Gloster B. Current to Wilkins and NAACP Assistant Executive Director John A. Morsell, discussing the possible need for new directions in NAACP policy. Current wrote, in part: "[W]e need to delve deeply into the problems of the ghetto communities...and to work out some new approaches which could...suggest some drastic modifications in our structure" (Reel 13, Frame 0591). The "Training Department" file (Reel 13, Frame 0001) contains the proceedings of a special April 1966 NAACP seminar on community unrest. Other materials relating to NAACP programs for urban areas can be found by consulting the subject index of this guide, under the heading "Programs, NAACP."

In 1954, the NAACP achieved arguably its greatest legal victory when the Supreme Court ruled, in Brown v. Board of Education, that "separate but equal" educational facilities were unconstitutional. Following the Brown victory, the NAACP mobilized its network of local branches to press for the desegregation of public schools across the country. Efforts to accomplish school desegregation, however, were sometimes met with varying degrees of resistance, ranging from policies of subterfuge and defiant noncompliance to acts of intimidation and violence. The passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 marked another decisive moment in the civil rights struggle and in the school desegregation battle. Title VI of the act stated that programs receiving federal assistance had to operate on a nondiscriminatory basis. The Health, Education, and Welfare Department (HEW) was authorized to devise nondiscriminatory funding regulations. The “Schools” file (beginning at Reel 7, Frame 0806) documents the NAACP’s campaign against segregated schools in the period from 1966 to 1970. There is a copy of the new HEW school desegregation guidelines adopted in 1966. There is also a report by the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights on the progress of school desegregation in southern and border states during 1965 and 1966. The “New York City” folders cover the Board of Education’s plans to allow for more community involvement in the school system. School desegregation in Florida, Indiana, Illinois, Maryland, New York State, Mississippi, Ohio, and Virginia is also covered in the “Schools” file. The NAACP’s campaign against segregated schools in the period before 1966 is documented in UPA’s Papers of the NAACP, Part 3: The Campaign for Educational Equality, 1913–1965, and in Part 23: Legal Department Case Files, 1956–1965.

Another issue covered in the “Schools” file is the formation of black studies programs and black student unions. At the NAACP’s 1969 national convention in Jackson, Mississippi, Roy Wilkins addressed this issue. He began by making clear that the NAACP supported the teaching of African American history. He stated, “We need to know our history during this 350-year struggle in America so that we will be proud of what has been done against heart-breaking odds.” Wilkins then articulated the NAACP’s opposition to segregated black studies programs. He declared, “But white students need to know this [history] too, so that completely segregated black studies, limited to black students and black faculty, simply does not make sense.... Similarly, we must be emphatic in condemning separate black dormitories.” (The full text of this speech, and the proceedings of the 1969 national convention, can be found in Papers of the NAACP, Supplement to Part 1, 1966–1970.) The “Schools—Autonomous Black Campuses” folders contain correspondence and newspaper clippings reacting to the NAACP’s position. The “Schools” file also has materials pertaining to black student unions and black studies programs at Coe College, Antioch College, Northwestern University, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The “Speakers” file (Reel 10, Frames 0374–0569) contains the texts of speeches and testimony given by NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins. Wilkins actively represented the NAACP at public events and before Congress. Drafts and typescripts of speeches in this file include those delivered at various important events: the Freedom House Award dinner in February 1966, the concluding dinner meeting of the White House Conference “To Fulfill These Rights” in June 1966, the National Insurance Association convention in July 1966, the seventh constitutional convention of the AFL–CIO in December 1967, the annual luncheon of the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies in April 1968, and during the Poor People's Campaign in June 1968. The "Speakers—Roy Wilkins, Testimonies" folder contains a typescript of Wilkins's statement before the Senate Subcommittee on Executive Reorganization on problems facing urban areas. There is also a statement before the Senate Subcommittee on Housing and Urban Affairs and a draft for Wilkins on the repeal of "right to work" laws. Other speeches and testimony delivered by Wilkins between 1966 and 1970 can be found in UPA's Papers of the NAACP, Supplement to Part 1, 1966–1970, and in Part 28: Special Subject Files, 1966–1970, Series A: "Africa" through "Poor People's Campaign."

The "Staff" file includes correspondence, memoranda, and reports of NAACP Labor Department Secretary Herbert Hill, Wilkins, and NAACP Assistant Executive Director John A. Morsell. Hill's files document some of his efforts to fight discrimination by employers and labor unions. For example, there is a January 1967 memorandum from Hill to NAACP state conference presidents informing them that as of the end of 1966, the NAACP had filed over two thousand employment discrimination complaints with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. There is also a June 1967 statement by Hill to the United Automobile Workers antidiscrimination conference, in which Hill criticized the AFL–CIO's failure to eliminate racial discrimination in its affiliated unions. Hill's annual reports for 1967 and 1968 (Reel 10, Frames 0878 and 0892) highlight the major activities of the NAACP's Labor Department during those two years. Additional materials pertaining to Hill's activities can be found in the "Labor" files in Papers of the NAACP, Part 28: Special Subject Files, 1966–1970, Series A: "Africa" through "Poor People's Campaign." The NAACP's campaign against employment discrimination in the period before 1966 is covered in Papers of the NAACP, Part 13: The NAACP and Labor, 1940–1955, and Supplement to Part 13: The NAACP and Labor, 1956–1965.

The "Staff—Roy Wilkins, Memoranda" file consists of memoranda written by Wilkins and correspondence to Wilkins from other NAACP staff members. These items frequently discuss important matters of NAACP policy. For example, there is a July 1966 memorandum from Wilkins to the delegates to the fifty-seventh annual NAACP convention discussing the Meredith March Against Fear, in which he commented on NAACP relations with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and the Congress of Racial Equality. An August 1966 memorandum from NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter to Wilkins discusses the NAACP Legal Department's relationship to the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. A September 1966 memorandum from June Shagaloff, Legal Department special counsel, summarizes the progress of school desegregation in northern and western states. Other topics covered in the "Staff—Roy Wilkins, Memoranda" file include voter registration, the War on Poverty and Head Start programs, the Poor People's Campaign, NAACP programs for urban areas, and the Vietnam War. Staff files for the years from 1940 to 1965 can be found in UPA's Papers of the NAACP, Part 17: National Staff Files, 1940–1955, and Supplement to Part 17, National Staff Files, 1956–1965.

At a board meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) in April 1966, SCLC President Martin Luther King Jr. called for “prompt withdrawal” of U.S. troops from Vietnam. In an April 14, 1966, memorandum from Gloster B. Current to Roy Wilkins, Stephen Spottswood, John A. Morsell, Clarence Mitchell, and Henry Lee Moon, Current wrote that King’s statement “will increase the pressures on the Association to become involved in the international clamor for an end to the war in Vietnam” (Reel 14, Frame 0001). In 1967 the NAACP did call for a just peace; by 1969, the association advocated the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam. The NAACP maintained throughout the 1960s, however, that its primary purpose involved civil rights, not foreign policy. A May 1966 telegram from Roy Wilkins to Irene H. Smith, New Jersey NAACP State Conference president, explained the association’s national policy. Wilkins wrote, National position on Vietnam has been that the war effort and the civil rights campaign should not be linked in an official action or pronouncement of NAACP. We recognize that many members and officers of NAACP have strong feelings on Vietnam but we believe they should express themselves through peace organizations... We believe we have a duty to those who choose the NAACP as their civil rights organization to keep it in the civil rights field.

(Reel 13, Frame 0779.) The “Vietnam” files contain this letter as well as other correspondence pertaining to the NAACP’s position on the Vietnam War. There are also copies of Martin Luther King Jr.’s statement to the SCLC board meeting, and copies of antiwar statements by Julian Bond and the SNCC. An April 16, 1967, memorandum from Current to Wilkins discusses the Spring Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam. Following Current’s memorandum are excerpts of speeches made at the demonstration by Martin Luther King Jr., Stokely Carmichael, Floyd B. McKissick, Cleveland Robinson, and James Bevel. NAACP convention resolutions on the Vietnam War can be found in UPA’s Papers of the NAACP, Supplement to Part 1, 1966–1970.

The NAACP’s interest in the War on Poverty is chronicled in a small series beginning at Frame 0807 of Reel 14 and continuing through to Frame 0154 of Reel 15. The “War on Poverty” file begins with two folders on the “Freedom Budget” proposed in 1966 by A. Philip Randolph and Bayard Rustin of the A. Philip Randolph Institute. The Freedom Budget called for the expenditure of $100 billion in order to eliminate poverty in the United States by 1975. The “War on Poverty—A. Philip Randolph Institute” folder contains several items explaining and summarizing the Freedom Budget. There is also a draft copy of the entire Freedom Budget proposal. This is followed by a folder of newspaper clippings, including editorial commentaries, on the Freedom Budget. Other items in the “War on Poverty” file include correspondence on the NAACP’s relationship to the War on Poverty and a paper by NAACP Youth and College Division Director Mark Rosenman entitled, “A Statistical Look at the Color of Poverty.” Additional materials pertaining to the NAACP and the War on Poverty can be found in Papers of the NAACP, Part 24: Special Subjects, 1956–1965, and Part 28: Special Subject Files, Series A: “Africa” through “Poor People’s Campaign.” UPA has also microfilmed records from the Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Library on the War on Poverty, which can be found in UPA’s The War on Poverty, 1964–1968.

The NAACP’s Washington Bureau was established in 1941 to coordinate the NAACP’s campaign for civil rights legislation. Clarence Mitchell served as director of the Washington Bureau from 1950 to 1978. Mitchell’s efforts were crucial in the passage of major civil rights legislation by Congress in 1957, 1960, 1964, 1965, and 1968. This edition includes correspondence, memoranda, and reports by Mitchell and by Washington Bureau counsel J. Francis Pohlhaus. The materials in the “Washington Bureau” file document the ways in which Mitchell and Pohlhaus lobbied for civil rights legislation. For example, the Mitchell memoranda folder (Reel 15, Frame 0595) includes a January 1966 memorandum to Roy Wilkins on the 1966 civil rights bill and a memorandum to NAACP state conference and local branch presidents listing how members of Congress voted on the bill. The “Clarence Mitchell—Statements and Speeches” folder includes several typescripts of Mitchell’s testimony before various congressional committees. In the Pohlhaus correspondence files, there is an analysis of the 1966 civil rights bill written by Pohlhaus. The “Reports” folder (Reel 15, Frame 0970) includes several monthly reports for 1966 and 1967 and the annual reports for 1966 and 1967 highlighting the main activities of the Washington Bureau for these two years.

The White House Conference on Civil Rights “To Fulfill these Rights” was originally conceived in 1965 when the relationship between civil rights organizations and the federal government was at a high point, due in large part to the passage of the landmark Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965. The conference was designed to discuss ways to implement and enforce this recently passed legislation. Topics discussed at the conference included employment, education, housing, administration of justice, families, public welfare programs, and voting rights. The “White House Conference ‘To Fulfill these Rights’” file contains reports, correspondence, and some of the working papers generated by the conference. Roy Wilkins attended the conference and this file probably consists primarily of the materials collected by Wilkins in connection with his service. The records of the White House Conference on Civil Rights can be found in UPA’s Civil Rights During the Johnson Administration, 1963–1969, Part IV: Records of the White House Conference on Civil Rights.

Part 28 of Papers of the NAACP represents the first set of General Office Files microfilmed by UPA of the post-1965 portion of the NAACP Records collection. Other editions of Papers of the NAACP that further document this important period in the NAACP’s history are

PRINCIPAL CORRESPONDENTS INDEX

The following index is a guide to the major correspondents in this microform publication. The first number after each entry refers to the reel, while the four-digit number following the colon refers to the frame number at which a particular file folder containing correspondence by the person begins. Hence, 4: 0823 directs the researcher to the folder that begins at Frame 0823 of Reel 4. By referring to the Reel Index, which constitutes the initial section of this guide, the researcher will find the folder title, inclusive dates, and a list of Major Topics and Principal Correspondents, arranged in the order in which they appear on the film.

SUBJECT INDEX

The following index is a guide to the major topics in this microform publication. The first number after an entry refers to the reel, while the four-digit number following the colon refers to the frame number at which a particular file folder containing information on the subject begins. Hence, 2: 0388 directs the researcher to the folder that begins at Frame 0388 of Reel 2. By referring to the Reel Index, which constitutes the initial section of this guide, the researcher will find the folder title, inclusive dates, and a list of Major Topics and Principal Correspondents, arranged in the order in which they appear on the film.
